

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A compressor of this invention includes a flow passage supplying lubricant to an outlet bearing and to an inlet bearing. An orifice is disposed within the flow passages for controlling lubricant flow to the bearing assemblies. A choke orifice is disposed in series with one of the orifices for either the inlet or outlet for controlling lubricant flow relative to the other orifice.

N:\Clients\CARRIER\JP00329\PATENT\Patent application 60,246-329.doc